What is the most rare patronus on pottermore

The albatross is the rarest Patronus on our list; the one belonging to the lowest number of Wizarding World fans. With the longest wingspan of any bird – up to 11 feet – the albatross surfs the ocean winds for hours, hardly even needing to flap. Similarly, How do I summon my Patronus?/To summon a Patronus – even a small foggy one – the spellcaster has to think of an extremely happy moment, preferably the happiest they have. This process makes it hard for many wizards to summon their Patronus, as bad memories or ideas can influence the happy memory or idea. Additionally, What is the most powerful Patronus in Pottermore? Corporeal. A corporeal Patronus is one that is fully-formed, taking the shape of a bright-silver, translucent animal. It is the strongest form a Patronus can take, being able to fully drive Dementors away. What is the most powerful Patronus? 1 Professor Dumbledore's Phoenix. Dumbledore is the only named character we know of with a magical creature as his Patronus. 2 Harry's Stag. ... 3 *James Potter's Stag. ... 4 *Lily Potter's Doe. ... 5 Snape's Doe. ... 6 Kingsley Shacklebolt's Lynx. ... 7 Dolores Umbridge's Cat. ... 8 Aberforth Dumbledore's Goat. ... Is a dragon a rare Patronus? Most uncommon of all possible Patronuses are magical creatures such as dragons, Thestrals and phoenixes. How do you do the Patronus spell? Expecto Patronum, or the Patronus Charm, will cast a Patronus, which can appear as simply white vapour, or in more advanced casters, as a silvery-white animal shape. If it takes the shape of an animal, it is called a corporeal Patronus. This spell is used to ward off Dementors, which are the guardians of Azkaban. 1 Professor Dumbledore's Phoenix. Dumbledore is the only named character we know of with a magical creature as his Patronus. 2 Harry's Stag. ... 3 *James Potter's Stag. ... 4 *Lily Potter's Doe. ... 5 Snape's Doe. ... 6 Kingsley Shacklebolt's Lynx. ... 7 Dolores Umbridge's Cat. ... 8 Aberforth Dumbledore's Goat. ... A doe. And in his final battle with Lord Voldemort, Harry explained the significance of this to his adversary, and to us: 'Snape's Patronus was a doe,' said Harry, 'the same as my mother's, because he loved her for nearly all of his life, from the time when they were children'. What is Sirius Black's Patronus? Sirius, an unregistered Animagus with the form of a large black dog, conjures a Patronus that is also a large black dog. What is Hagrid's Patronus? Another said: 'Hagrid has no Patronus. Is a dragon a good Patronus? Dragons are strong in their convictions and will stand for what they believe is right. Those with a dragon for a Patronus are sure to be fierce fighters, and the Dementors better be ready for a challenge! ... This Patronus may be tiny, but its spirit is enough to battle any Dementor. What does my Patronus mean dragon? THE DRAGON. The dragon represents an inner element, one that is prominent in peoples with this patronus. The element can vary, but quite often it is fire. There is a strong passion and ambition in this person, and a fury like no other. What are rare Patronuses? It seems that the "rare" Patronuses are all magical creatures. While it is more common to get an ordinary animal, like a variety of dog, horse, or bird, the "rare" ones are the type of creature that you might encounter in Hagrid's Care for Magical Creatures class, or perhaps in Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them. How does a Patronus work? The aim is to produce a silvery-white guardian or protector, which takes the form of an animal. The exact form of the Patronus will not be apparent until the spell has been successfully cast. One of the most powerful defensive charms known to wizardkind, the Patronus can also be used as a messenger between wizards. Is Expecto Patronum a real spell? Expecto Patronum, the spell that conjured up Harry's magnificent stag Patronus, roughly translates into 'I expect (or await) a guardian' in Latin, which is apt. The actual result of the spell, the Patronus itself, has an even more interesting history. What is the most powerful spell in Harry Potter? 1 Avada Kedavra Is The Ultimate Unforgivable Curse As the most sinister of Unforgivables, Avada Kedavra – the Killing Curse – is an incredibly powerful spell that is a favorite of Lord Voldemort's. Why Snape and Lily have same Patronus? In the wizarding world, the identity of a person's Patronus is highly significant – Harry, for example, has the same Patronus as his father, James, and Severus Snape's Patronus changed to be the same as the woman he was in love with, Lily Potter, when she died. What was Sirius Black's Patronus? Sirius, an unregistered Animagus with the form of a large black dog, conjures a Patronus that is also a large black dog. Who did Sirius Black lose his virginity to? The summer after his fourth year, Sirius lost his virginity to a seventeen-year-old, very beautiful Muggle girl who also lived in London. He was fifteen. He told his brother just to shock him, the Marauders for congratulations (although Remus just lectured him), and Marlene, because he wanted to make her jealous. Who was Sirius Black in love with? Sirius is very gentle and loving with Marlene, contrast to how he was with his previous partners. He loves to lick all over Marlene giving her dog kisses, marking his territory in a way. After they have sex, the PDA is taken to a whole new level. What would Regulus Black's Patronus be? Regulus Black Regulus Arcturus Black Biographical information Magical characteristics Patronus Raven Affiliation by Kat Miller · Published September 22, 2016 · Updated July 23, 2021 You may not know this, but MuggleNet has over 70 volunteers that help make us the World's #1 Harry Potter site. We work hard together, from writing editorials and features, to organizing online and IRL events. We also, as you can imagine, play hard together. We all get along quite well, and when something major hits the fandom – like the Patronus quiz finally becoming available on Pottermore – we geek out just as hard as you do. This list may never be complete, but given the wide range of outcomes our staff received, we knew we had to put a list together. If you don't see your Patronus on here, please comment below, and we will add it to the list! Aardvark Abraxan Winged Horse (very rare) Adder Albatross Badger Basset Hound Bat (unusual) Bay Mare Bay Stallion Beagle Black and White Cat Black Bear (unusual) Black Mamba Black Mare Black Stallion Black Swan Blackbird Bloodhound Borzoi Brown Bear Brown Hare Brown Owl (unusual) Buffalo (unusual) Buzzard Calico Cat Capuchin Monkey Cheetah (unusual) Chestnut Mare Chestnut Stallion Chow Dog Crow Dapple Grey Mare Dapple Grey Stallion Deerhound Doe (unusual) Dolphin Dragon (very rare) Dragonfly Dun Mare Dun Stallion Eagle Eagle Owl (unusual) Elephant (unusual) Erumpent (very rare) Falcon Field Mouse Fire-Dwelling Salamander (very rare) Fox Fox Terrier Ginger Cat Goshawk Granian Winged Horse (very rare) Grass Snake Great Grey Owl (unusual) Greyhound Grey Squirrel Hedgehog Heron (J.K. Something went wrong. Wait a moment and try again. Most popular: dolphin It's a good thing that dolphins are the most common Patronus form, because they're friendly, sociable mammals! They live in pods, communicate in squeaks, whistles and clicks and are incredibly playful creatures. If you have a dolphin as a Patronus, perhaps it matches your own extroverted personality? If that doesn't sound like you, maybe deep down you're more outgoing than you thought... Tonkinese cat There are no fewer than six types of cat in the top twenty, but the one that came in second to the dolphin was the Tonkinese cat. It's no real surprise that cats were amongst the most common Patronus types; according to J.K. Rowling 'it is usual for a Patronus to take the form of an animal commonly found in the caster's native country'. A Tonkinese cat Patronus might indicate that you're a curious and loving person. This breed delights in playing games, unlike lazier cats, and is very generous with their affection. Fox Following the felines, the fox slinks into fifth place. Foxes are cunning, resourceful and fiercely intelligent – remind you of anything? That's right – we wouldn't be surprised if some members of Slytherin house find themselves with a fox Patronus. Foxes are also highly adaptable and can live in many diverse habitats around the world. If deep down you're channelling the fox, you'll likely have resilience in spades. St Bernard The sixth most popular Patronus is a type of dog. Like cats, there are quite a few friendly canines in the top twenty, but the St Bernard comes out top dog. A gentle giant, the St Bernard reminds us a little of Rubeus Hagrid in nature. Apart from its size, this breed has become well known for performing search and rescue, saving lives in the mountains. You're likely to have bravery with a St Bernard as your Patronus, as well as a big heart – even if you don't wear it on your sleeve. Hedgehog This prickly customer just makes it into the top ten. Hedgehogs hibernate in cold climates, so if your Patronus takes this form it might be that you'd rather curl up under a blanket than take on the winter chill. Personality-wise, these critters may look cute but they've got a hard edge when it comes to defending themselves. Perhaps you have hidden depths to your personality if this is your Patronus. One thing's for sure though, we wouldn't mind having this spiky Patronus on our side against a Dementor. Still curious about whether your Patronus made it into the top 20? Scroll to the bottom to find out! A handful of rarities Unicorn A magical form of Patronus is very uncommon, and the unicorn is one of the rarest on our list. According to Newt Scamander, the unicorn 'is a pure white, horned horse when fully grown'. They generally avoid human contact, so a unicorn Patronus might indicate shyness in a personality as well as an air of mystery. Although it doesn't follow that a magical Patronus is more powerful than any other, it may reflect an 'unusual personality'. Snowy owl Given their prominence in the wizarding world, you might think that having an owl Patronus is pretty commonplace. However, they're unusual and this is backed up by our statistics – the Snowy owl is 115th most common. In fact the highest any owl comes on list is 105th with the Scops owl. If you're lucky enough to have a Snowy owl as your Patronus, you may well reflect its protective and fearless personality – it fiercely defends its nest, even against wolves. No doubt Hedwig would have been a Gryffindor! Stag 118th on our list is the stag Patronus we associate so closely with Harry, as well as his father, James Potter. Interestingly the doe sits next to the stag on the list, almost like they're watching over each other – not unlike James and Lily, and later... Snape and Harry. Often regarded as a protector, a stag Patronus might indicate that you look out for others, as well as shine in leadership roles. Just like Harry, we'd feel safe with his proud guardian as our Patronus. Wood mouse If you have a mouse as a Patronus we're here to reassure you – they may be small, but they are mighty! J.K. Rowling tells us that 'one of the most famous Patronuses of all time was a lowly mouse, which belonged to a legendary young wizard called Illyius, who used it to hold off an attack from an army of Dementors single-handedly.' As well as bravery, having this mouse Patronus may also hint at your initiative and intelligence. Wood mice mark their territory by placing objects in key places. Smart! At 87th down the list, this little mouse is also a relatively rare Patronus. Albatross The albatross is the rarest Patronus on our list; the one belonging to the lowest number of Wizarding World fans. With the longest wingspan of any bird – up to 11 feet – the albatross surfs the ocean winds for hours, hardly even needing to flap. If you have produced an albatross Patronus, perhaps you have a happy-go-lucky personality and enjoy throwing caution to the wind. The Dementors would be unlikely to get you down with this giant feathered friend soaring in to save the day. The top twenty... Dolphin Tonkinese Cat Manx Cat Nebelung Cat Fox St Bernard Dog Weasel Basset Hound Black and White Cat Hedgehog Deerhound West Highland Terrier Siberian Cat Tortoiseshell Cat White Stallion White Mare White Swan Osprey Borzoi Ragdoll Cat If you haven't yet sought out your Patronus, you just need to sign up here to discover it. If you already have a Patronus you can admire it here. Whatever form your Patronus takes, we hope it brings you happiness and hope!
